

Confidentiality Notice

Thank you for participating in this counseling consultation/session with Healing The Broken Heart, LLC. As we partner together to make sure that your needs and goals are discussed and reviewed effectively, your confidentiality and wellbeing are of utmost concern. To ensure the Registered Mental Health Counseling Intern of HTBH is operating within the scope of competency, she is required by Florida Department of Health to receive weekly supervision under the guidance of a Florida Board approved Licensed Mental Health Counselor. Information that is discussed or provided will not be shared without your written consent. Although confidentiality between you and HTBH is confidential, there are some limitations that may be disclosed to the proper authorities for the safety of yourself and others. Limitations include:

- If there is suspected and/or reported abuse or neglect of any child, elderly person, or vulnerable adult who is not able to care for themselves.
- If there is serious potential to harm yourself or others (No joking matter!)
- If we receive a signed legal court order to relinquish any records of our counseling sessions.

In all honesty, answering some of the questions throughout the consultation/sessions can be challenging. To answer, however, this is not to cause shame or guilt but to build a foundation on which to grow from. If at anytime you are not comfortable or feel overwhelmed by the consultation/session please let the Registered Mental Health Counseling Intern know.
